Kosygin Russian State University is ready to welcome LMU students

20.08.2025

From August 25 to 29, 2025 Kosygin University will again host participants of the Summer Multidisciplinary University, implemented within the framework of the Russian-African Network University (RAFU) with the support of the Ministry of Science and Higher Education of the Russian Federation.

Among the key areas of the Summer University this year is the professional development program "Training and Management of Technological and Socially Oriented Projects". It covers educational and cultural-historical directions and is aimed at forming a new model of organizational culture that promotes effective interaction between students from Russia and African countries.

In the modern world, technological and social innovations are becoming the basis for sustainable development. The development of infrastructure, healthcare, education, energy and entrepreneurship is impossible without competent project management. That is why the program is aimed at training specialists capable of developing and implementing projects focused on sustainable growth, digital transformation and social change.

Participants will master modern approaches to project management, familiarize themselves with advanced methods and technologies, and learn how to attract investments and international funding. The program is designed for students, postgraduates and young professionals who wish to improve their professional skills and contribute to the development of cooperation between Russia and Africa.

In addition to educational sessions, the participants will be offered a cultural and historical program: sightseeing in Moscow, visiting museums and cultural venues of the capital. This will make it possible to combine learning and intercultural exchange, making the RAFU Summer Multidisciplinary University 2025 not only a useful but also an inspiring event.
