

Almazov Centre joins RAFU consortium

16.05.2024

Today Almazov NMIC is a national multidisciplinary scientific, clinical and research medical centre. Scientific, educational and clinical spheres of activity are expanding: new scientific units are being opened; seven research institutes are operating, as well as the Institute of Medical Education with 29 chairs. The uniqueness of the Centre lies in the harmonious combination of fundamental and applied research in various fields with the provision of multidisciplinary specialised, high-tech medical care to the population and continuous interdisciplinary training of scientific and medical personnel. The Almazov Centre maintains international relations with foreign medical organisations and universities in many countries of the world.

«The current signing of the agreement is very important. In addition to industrial, industrial, cultural development and exchange between our countries, health plays a crucial role, especially for Africa. Every mobilisation of capacity, knowledge in education, training of national human resources, especially in the field of medicine, prevention, public health, is momentous. And we hope that RAFU will become another effective tool for expanding effective and mutually beneficial cooperation of the Almazov Centre with the countries and leading universities of the African continent in the field of training and retraining of personnel», — said Rector of SPbPU Andrey Rudskoy.
